To whom it may concern,

I am a Dunoon resident, a writer and a student of engineering. Please don't let the building of this dam go ahead.

We rely on the people representing us to recognise our views and act on our behalf and the community has spoken: we don't want the dam.

It is depressing to live in a time when our government and water authorities have little care about protecting our First Nations heritage, including the burial sites which would be flooded, or the last vestiges of remaining scrub which is crucial habitat for endangered koala and platypus species.

Climate change demands much more imagination water solutions than this. Let's not follow in the footsteps of Rio Tinto.

Regards
